MATERIAL  THE CANDLE POURERS FROM EAST JAVA, INDONESIA

CANDLE MAKING CRAFT

All candles in the originalhome collection are poured by hand. The process is simple but requires a lot of patience and concentration. The vegan wax is melted in big kettles and then poured into jars. The jar is used to pour the liquid wax into an iron mold that contains a cotton wick. Candle pouring is actually a very precise skill. The wax should be poured into the mold in one fluid motion to create a consistent candle. This requires control and concentration. It is said that women are the best candle pourers.

The founders of the candle factory started their business for a specific reason: giving back to their community in East-Java, Indonesia. Their starting point was to empower the community by creating more job opportunities The founders could have easily operated their business with machines; however, this would not have been in line with their goals. They set up a workshop that produces vegan candles entirely by hand. More hands means more job opportunities for rural communities because these areas suffer from high unemployment rates. The majority of their workforce consists of rural women. They receive a special candle pouring training program, English classes and other life skill lessons to increase their family income.

The WFTO certified workshop provides these women with a safe working environment, fair wages and free medical insurance for themselves and their families. This way of working empowers these rural women to become more independent and increase the respect they receive from their community.
